DA cracks down on gambling

One armed bandits leave Hancock County

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A crackdown on gambling along the Coast evolved from a meeting called Thursday by District Attorney Cono Caranna, according to Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff.

Peterson said he and Larkin Smith, Harrison County sheriff, met with the DA after lunch on Thursday.

"An agreement was made that no more slot-type machines will be operating in either county, and that includes service-type organizations," Peterson stated.

In Hancock County Peterson has given service organizations with gambling machines until Feb. 15 to remove them, and has been notifying them of the DA's crackdown.

On Saturday Peterson indicated most of the machines have already been removed from the clubs in the county.

In early November Caranna as a DA-elect wrote a letter to the Coast's Chambers of Commerce in reference to the Coast's reputation toward gambling.

The letter in part stated, "As community leaders I am asking you to join me by using your individual and collective influence to help change our reputation of being permissive toward illegal gambling."

"Personal example and public expression of support of vigorous law enforcement of illegal gambling activities are two ways in which you can improve our reputation in this matter."

Peterson said. "After discussing the situation with the DA on Thursday, the crackdown would not affect non-profit or church-type bingo and church-type lotteries."

Caranna, who is DA for Hancock, Harrison and Stone Counties, had stated in his November letter to the chambers, "...Church, fraternal and civic group bingo, when vigorously monitored and controlled by such groups to avoid corruption of their charitable purpose, is not an area of prosecutorial priority..."

Peterson indicated the crackdown will be on slot machines, all slot-type machines, football pools, dice tables and card tables.

"We believe there are various types of slot machines throughout the county, and we agreed that they will no longer exist. A number of non-profit organizations throughout the county have gambling devices that will no longer be tolerated," Peterson continued.

On Saturday Peterson stated, "After Feb. 15 the non-profit organizations with slot machines or gambling devices will be free game as far as making arrests."

Douglas Williams, Bay St. Louis chief of police, reported he had received a call from District Attorney Caranna telling him about the gambling crackdown. Waveland police were also reportedly notified.

Bay resident declines bid for Presidency

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Brig. Gen. Gordon Mohr of Bay St. Louis is declining an invitation to run for President as the American Independent Party candidate in the California June primary election.

In an interview Friday the former military officer said he was approached about a month ago by La. U.S. Representative John Rarick, 1980 American Independent ticket Presidential candidate, and asked whether he would be willing to run.

Mohr said he told Rarick he would need some time to think it over, but through some mixup Mohr said his name was turned in anyway.

A recent letter from the California Secretary of State advised Mohr that he has until March 31 to have his name removed from the ballot.

Mohr said he had just completed a letter to American Independent Party Central Committee Chairman Carl Sigmund advising him he is not going to run.

"I'm not real enthusiastic about the idea," Mohr said.

"And my wife is dead set against it," he added.

Mohr said he was given quite a number of names to contact in California but has "not followed up."

"I figured if they wanted me, they would contact me."

GORDON MOHR

"There would have to be some very, very strong support shown to get me to change my mind," he said.

"As of the present time, I have declined."

Mohr said he is not an active member of the American Independent Party.

He did, he said, do some campaigning for the party in Ohio in 1978.

"I've known many of the top people in the party for quite a number of years," he said.

Asked why he had been invited to run on the American Independent Party, Mohr said the recent emphasis on

Cable manager to meet with supervisors, council

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Hancock County Community Cable General Manager Jake Jacob will meet Monday with the Board of Supervisors and Tuesday with the Bay St. Louis City Council.

Asked Friday to comment about possible expansion of cable television service, Jacob said "I won't say a word until after the meetings."

"There is no story as of today," he insisted.

He also declined to comment on rumors that the franchise is being sold. The city council has tried for several months to set up a meeting with Jacob to discuss complaints from residents who have not been able to get cable TV.

Although the council has apparently not submitted a written request to the company for expansion of services, both City Attorney Joseph Gex and City Clerk Edward Favre have had verbal discussions with Jacob regarding a meeting to discuss the complaints.

Council President Wilmer Seymour has commented on the problem at every council meeting for the past four months or so.

Seymour said most of the complaints he has received have come from residents in the annexed area in the vicinity of Seube, Seventh and Victoria Streets.

"I already have the service," Seymour said Friday. "I'm trying to get it for the areas that don't have it."

"I've had more requests for cable TV than for anything else since I've been on the city council," he said.

The ordinance governing cable television service states that "The company shall during the continuance of this ordinance provide facilities and service sufficient to meet the needs of the public welfare."

Gex said another document, a lease, states that the company shall provide service when it is "economically feasible" to do so.

"I hope the company will come in Tuesday and give those people the service," Seymour said.

Fund established for shelter run

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society has established a memorial fund to accept contributions to build an outdoor dog exercise yard for the Hancock County Animal Shelter in Waveland.

Geri Richardson, fund chairman, said Friday that the special account has been established at Hancock Bank and is named the Gerald Cornskey Humane Society Memorial Fund.

She noted the fund is named in memory of the late Waveland resident who was recently killed at his home.

Richardson explained the County Animal Control Commission which is the governing body of the shelter and the Bay-Waveland Humane Society which assists the commission in operating the shelter, have no funds to build the much needed facility.

"We need this so the animals can get fresh air and exercise. Also, the animal wardens can let the dogs out each day while they disinfest and wash down the cages," she stated.

The animals won't get wet when the cages are cleaned, Richardson added.

She said the exercise run to meet State Health Department standards would be 10 feet by 31 feet, parallel a portion of the front of the shelter with an eight foot fence and have a concrete floor with a drain.

The estimated cost of the project is

VEHICLE HEAVILY DAMAGED—A new Mazda driven by Ella Broome, 369 Grayson St., Pass Christian sustained heavy damage Monday morning when it struck a utility pole on Beach Blvd., according to Douglas Williams, Bay St. Louis chief of police. Captain Robert Butler, investigating officer, said Ms. Broome told him that she had blacked out before striking the pole. She was taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service for treatment and released, police reported. The vehicle was removed by Charles Periclaro Wrecker Service. Gary Crum, Bay patrolman and the Bay St. Louis Fire Department's Rescue Unit also responded to the accident. ## Land near Stennis Airport eyed as wastewater site

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Land owned by a paper company near Stennis International Airport now seems to be the most attractive site for a proposed Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District spray irrigation system for treated sewage disposal.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland, chairman of the district's board of directors, said Friday that land owned by International Paper Co. near the airport and in the National Space Technology Laboratories Acoustic Buffer Zone now seems to be the best site for a proposed spray irrigation system.

The system is one of several the district is considering which will be the subject of a public hearing to probably be set for sometime in March at a recess meeting of the board slated for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 15 at Waveland City Hall.

Ray Eaton of Lewis-Eaton Partnership of Jackson, the district's engineer ing firm of record, said at a Wednesday night board meeting that at least 700 acres are needed for the irrigation system which would serve Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

He reported 800 acres might be necessary if ground percolation tests show that land in a chosen site will not absorb fluids at the required rate.

Eaton said his firm is negotiating with the owners of several privately-owned sites in the NSTL buffer zone for placement of the system, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is not willing to allow any such structures on land it owns in the restricted area.

Longo and Eaton said paper companies with land holdings in Hancock County are eager for the district to utilize their land.

The mayor noted that studies have shown that effluent from spray irrigation systems accelerate tree growth.

He said about 10 miles of pipe would probably be buried along Hwy. 603 to transport treated Bay and Waveland sewage to the irrigation system.

Longo said the central Hancock location for the system would also allow in the future other rapidly growing communities, such as Kiln and Shoreline Park, to establish sewage systems and utilize the irrigation system to dispose of effluents.

Areas with sewage systems now discharging into rivers and bayous, such as Diamondhead and Jourdan River Shores, could also tie into the proposed system, Longo added.

Waveland now discharges sewage effluent into Edwards Bayou and Bay St. Louis utilizes Watts Bayou for this purpose, both waterways flow into Jourdan River.

Eaton explained the irrigation system itself consists of a network of underground pipe with uniformly spaced vertical pipes extending above ground and supporting sprinkler heads which would each spray a 40-foot area.

Longo said the U.S. Department of Interior Environmental Protection Agency is willing to pay 85 percent of the cost for installation of the irrigation system. John McCarty, BPC Hancock project engineer, at the meeting explained that EPA considers the spray system an "innovative alternative technologies project" which would qualify for the 85 percent money.

Eaton suggested the Feb. 15 meeting so the board could set a public hearing concerning the 201 and 206 Plans which are documents explaining the district's management scheme and how it plans to meet future sewage treatment needs for the county.

In those documents the spray method, deep well injection, disposal in Jourdan River or Mississippi Sound, buildup of American military strength might have had some bearing—because of my unusual background.

Also, he said, "the American Independent Party takes a strong stand on the Communist issue, and I have been an outspoken critic of State Department policies since World War II and have written a number of books on the subject."

Mohr, a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army when he retired in 1964 after 22 years of active duty, has lived in Bay St. Louis for eight years.

He served in World War I, Korea and Vietnam, and said he was the first American captured by the Communists in Korea a year and a half before the war began there.

After the Korean War Mohr worked with psychiatrists studying brainwashing techniques in an effort to find out what had happened to American prisoners of war.

A native of Michigan, Mohr holds a doctor of letters degree and a master of theology degree from Freelandia Institute.

Mohr said he spends most of his time now as a professional lecturer, discussing Communism from a Christian standpoint.

"We hope to start construction in March if we have enough contributions," she stated.

Richardson said before his death, Comiskey actively tried to encourage the animal commission to build the fund but due to limited funding the government body could not undertake such a project.

Comiskey served on the commission and was an active member of the humane society, Richardson reported.

She also noted that before the animal shelter was constructed, Comiskey housed stray dogs at his home and at one-time provided free shelter for about 30 dogs.

To contribute to this project, donations must specify the fund name and be sent to the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, P.O. Box 471, Waveland, Miss. 39676 or telephone 467-0475.

Foundation membership brings free walnut trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving three free Black Walnut trees to new Foundation members joining during February, 1984.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

Black Walnut trees were chosen for this campaign because of their value and versatility, according to the Foundation.

The Walnut trees bear sweet, edible nuts, and they are also used for shade trees, growing to 80-100 feet. Walnut hardwood is very valuable for making furniture and cabinets.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give three Black Walnut trees to new members contributing $10 during February.

The trees will be two to three feet tall and will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring.

The Foundation makes its spring shipments between Feb. 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation, and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to Free Walnut Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68101, by Feb. 29.

IN MEMORIAM

JIMMY SINGLETON
Born Feb. 6, 1967
Died Aug. 14, 1974

Well, my Jim, it's time again, that if you were here with me,

We'd be celebrating your birthday, because 12 years old you'd be.

But God took you above to be with Him, I know I shouldn't question why.

But I catch myself late at night crying, "Why did my son have to die?"

If it's something I've done, why not punish me? Why take it out on him?

He knew that fateful day at the creek that my Jim, he could not swim.

Why didn't He give him a helping hand? Why didn't He give me a sign?

Why did He have to break my heart? Why take a child of mine?

I torture myself endlessly with the never ending "why."

And the why for which I have no answer, why did my son have to die.

Art Center Clones to launch Mardi Gras

The Contemporary Arts Center in New Orleans will present its sixteenth annual Krewe of Clones parade and ball on Saturday, Feb. 18. The parade rolls at 6 p.m. and is followed by the Clones' ball on the Riverboat President at 8 p.m.

This year's parade theme, "Barbie and Ken Go to the World's Fair," was selected to celebrate the 25th birthday of the world's most famous doll, Barbie.

The parade, which attracted over 80,000 spectators last year, will follow a route which begins at the Contemporary Arts Center at 900 Camp Street, makes its way through the French Quarter and ends at the Riverboat President for the ball.

Organized by video artist and krewe Captain Denise Vallon, the Krewe of Clones is the city's only artists' parade. During the past few years, it has received considerable national attention.

Referring to this year's theme, Krewe Captain Vallon says that "perhaps no other symbol contains as much significance of the 'real culture' for today's adults as Barbie and her constant escort, Ken. Their clothes, their hair styles and their accessories are an accurate reflection of a quarter of a century of American styles.

Besides, Barbie is the ultimate clone, and what better way to honor her birthday than to have her and Ken see the 1984 World's Fair?"

Barbie will be portrayed by the Krewe of Clones' permanent queen, artist Sandra Blair. Her Ken will be selected on Feb. 11 in a special contest open to all area men who think they qualify.

In addition to the original Barbie, the Clones will honor a number of special edition Barbies, including Black Forest Barbie, Bourbon Street Barbie, Motown Barbie, Butch Barbie and Barbell Barbie.

Tickets for the Clones ball are now available at the Contemporary Arts Center and all Ticketmaster locations. Tickets are $15 in advance, $20 at the door.

The Clones ball will feature music by the Neville Brothers and Beausoleil.

Proceeds from the Clones ball benefits the Contemporary Arts Center's porary Arts Center's Programs.

For further information, call the Contemporary Arts Center at 523-1216.

WARNING SIGNS

People who experience the symptoms of arthritis usually wait four or more years before seeing a doctor for help, reports the Arthritis Foundation.

"Such delays are shocking because during this waiting period the disease usually progresses," said Julie Williams, director of the Arthritis Foundation Gulf Coast Branch. "In at least half the cases, this damage is irreversible."

The risk of permanent damage can be reduced if people learn the warning signs of arthritis and then act immediately when they occur. Some symptoms to look for include redness, swelling or stiffness in a joint.

For a free copy of the brochure titled "Arthritis: A Serious Look at the Facts," contact the Arthritis Foundation's Gulf Coast Branch, Write P.O. Box 448, Gulfport, MS 39504 or call 866-2015.

Mustard the product of a variety of plants

By Ann O. Rushing
Extension Marketing
Specialist

Mustard finds its way to the table in several forms. Mustard is the name given to various plants whose seeds are used in the preparation of the condiment we know as mustard.

The most commonly used are the white mustard with reddish-yellow seeds; black mustard with smaller blackish-red seeds (the leaves of this plant are sometimes used in salad) and wild mustard whose oily seeds are mainly used to adulterate the other two varieties.

Mustard was known to the Romans. Imported into Gaul by them, it quickly gained favor as a condiment.

There are many formulas for mustard, differing with each manufacturer. English mustard is usually sold as a fine powder (it is a mixture of black and white mustard, with curcuma added).

Curcuma is an Old World tropical herb of the ginger family with tuberous roots that include turmeric. English mustard is mixed with water before it is used.

French mustards, which are sold in the form of paste, are made with a mixture of white and black powdered mustard seed, often with herbs added. It is mixed with verjuice (Dion mustard) or unfermented wine (Bordeaux mustard). In Italy, Remora mustard contains crystallized fruit.

Mustard fanciers will argue the merits of a mild champagne-based, or poupon Dijon, or a Louisiana mix—against the sharp English or Chinese. There are many ways to prepare mustards from mustard powder. This is the dry residue left after the oil is pressed from the seed. But the freshness of the mix is an important factor.

The flavor changes rapidly once moisture is added and, especially, once a bottle is opened after mixing. Try keeping it fresh by putting a slice of lemon on top of it before closing the lid. The lemon "needs" renewal about once a week. The ground seed varies from white to yellow to brown. The white or English seed is very scarce and superb. The brown is the next best.

Commercial mustards with their blends of flour and spices—often heavy in turmeric to color them—may be based on water, wine or vinegar. If you want to mix your own, allow two to three tablespoons liquid to one-fourth cup dry mustard.

You can successfully add mustard in small quantities to cheese, seasoned flour, chicken or pot roasts and to sauces, hot or cold. It is classic served with cold meats and for use in pickles—both ground and as a seed. Prepared mustard has about one-third to one-half the strength of dry mustard.

There are two basic ways to prepare mustards. Hot mustards are based on cold liquids—water, vinegar or flat beer. Add two to three tablespoons liquid to about one-fourth cup dry mustard. If it is too hot, tone it with a little olive or cooking oil, garlic, tarragon leaves and a pinch of sugar.

In the grocery store you'll find several flavors of prepared mustard in the condiment section with catsup and mayonnaise—the perfect accompaniment for hot-dogs and other sandwiches.

Mustard seeds from the spice shelf are often used in making pickles and in flavoring various meat dishes.

Mustard powder, also available in the spice shelf is frequently called for in sauces, soups, meat dishes and casseroles.

Mustard is truly a unique food with an interesting flavor. When buying it remember that a little goes a long way.

Air Force offers 200 scholarships

The Air Force is offering more than 200 scholarships that can ease the financial strain of medical school and allow students to concentrate more on studies, Captain Dan Ellis announced recently.

The four-year Armed Forces Health Professions Scholarships pay full tuition and the cost of books, fees and laboratory expenses, plus more than $50 per month for living expenses.

To be eligible, a student must be a U.S. citizen accepted for enrollment in an approved school of allopathic or osteopathic medicine, Ellis said.

Participation is based on competitive selection.

There is a two-year Air Force service obligation for the first two years a student is in the program. Thereafter, there is a six-month obligation for every six months or less participation.

Students without prior military service must serve a minimum of three years.

Students serve 45 days annual active duty as an Air Force second lieutenant, drawing full pay and allowances for that grade, recruiter during this time they perform limited clinical duties or attend an Air Force orientation course.

According to Ellis, the training period is designed to provide meaningful military and professional experience appropriate to educational level and abilities.

For more information on the Air Force Health Professions Scholarships, contact your nearest Air Force recruiter.

Quotables by Cuevas

We saw J.C. Baxter of Bay St. Louis on the television show 'Real People' Wednesday night.

He was attending a reunion of Bataan POW survivors at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama.

I was the first person to whom Baxter ever granted an interview for publication in 1980 on his horrors of Bataan and Corregidor as a Japanese prisoner. He survived the noted 'death march'.

Baxter is well known in Hancock County and can be seen many times exercising about town on his bicycle. In our times of nuclear threats, we must never let our guard down.

America was suprised at Pearl Harbor in 1941, and many of our citizens as well as Allies gave the supreme sacrifice.

On Wednesday of this week an important blood drawing will be held at the American Legion Home on Green Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

The drive is sponsored by the Hancock County Blood Bank in cooperation with the American Red Cross.

As many of you know, the Hancock County Blood Bank is the only organization which has a contract with Hancock General Hospital for blood.

The drawing is from 2 to 8 p.m. and we hope many will offer blood in order to reach the quota of 100 units. J.D. (Big John) Rutherford, county chairman, reports the current supply is low and they need a large turnout on Wednesday.

We hope to see you at the blood drawing.

City Council fails to request expanded cable television service

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
124 Court Street
Bay St. Louis, Ms 39520

Dear Sir:

On Nov. 21, 1983 my son, who is a local attorney, wrote to the City Council of Bay St. Louis on my behalf in regards to lack of cable television service in my neighborhood.

In that letter, we requested that the council bring the matter to the attention of the cable company and pointed out that there were numerous other complaints lodged with the council in this regard.

Although you published the fact that myself and others were being denied cable television service, the City Council did not see fit to reply to my letter.

On Dec. 7, 1983, we again wrote a letter to the City Council, outlining the problem and also made a formal written request to Hancock Community Cable Company for cable television service.

As of this date the City Council of Bay St. Louis has still not responded to either of my two letters.

However, on Dec. 20 the attorney for Hancock Community Cable contacted us by mail and stated the following:

"Although Hancock Community Cable endeavors to be sensitive to the needs and desires of both its present and future customers, I will remind you that under Ordinance 240, Section B, the Proper channels to follow would be through the City Council.

The letter then went on to say that the City Council has never notified that cable company of any type of contract or ordinance violation and we further understand from speaking to the cable company's attorney that the City Council has never even made a written request for additional cable television service for the City of Bay St. Louis, as required.

Perhaps further publication of this problem will bring the City Council into action on this matter.

Thanking you for your interest in this matter, I am,

Yours truly,
Henry J. Cook Jr.

Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overall
Public Information Officer
Q: How important is employee training to a small business?

A: Very important. Consider some of the remarks on employee training made by Chairman William Norris of Control Data Corporation at last year's States and Small Business Conference, sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration. "Without adequate training, no small business can perform up to full potential and be as competitive as it might be," Norris said.

"Employee training in small business is particularly important," he continued. "Training is needed more in small business because margins for error are not as great (as they are in a large firm), and employees must be more efficient to help offset the lack of economies of scale."

Traditional training methods are costly, but today's computer-based education can provide high-quality training at low cost. Such training can be provided for employees at the place of work. Courses available through computer-based education systems include planning, accounting, marketing, purchasing, government relations and management training.

Q: Where can a small business person get help with a problem or question involving the government?

A: Help is available simply by calling a toll-free number connected to the U.S. Small Business Administration's 'Answer Desk' in Washington, D.C. The number is 800/368-5855.

At times, calls are handled by a recording device and handled the next business day. Trained SBA employees are ready to answer and help with questions called in by small business owners and prospective small business owners.

If a question cannot be answered directly, callers are referred to the appropriate government agency in Washington or around the country.

Is 'Answer Desk' popular? You bet it is. In its first full year of operation, 'Answer Desk' fielded almost 50,000 calls. Calls currently are running about 175 a day.

Q: As a new small business owner, I have become more and more aware of the potential problems in business disputes. Since these can be both damaging and expensive, do you have any suggestions?

A: In a word — prevention. More and more small businesses are beginning to realize that proper preparation can help them avoid messy legal situation. William Hart, director of a Chicago-based company specializing in conflict management, stresses the need for trying to prevent legal problems ahead of time, especially recurring problems, instead of attempting to cope with them when they arise.

One of the best methods, Hart suggests, is to arrange for a lawyer to review your outstanding business contracts and agreements and attempt to foresee potential problems such as licenses, product liability and employee discrimination.

Once the company papers have been reviewed, proper language and stipulations can be rewritten into the contracts and agreements.

You may also want a lawyer to review your past history of litigation to analyze your practices and recommend changes in your operation to avoid future pitfalls.

Q: My landlord just advised me that my rent for my business is going up by more than 10 percent next month. Since this increased cost will take a healthy piece of my profits, do you have any suggestions?

A: If there's any comfort in it, you're not alone. Rent costs make up a sizeable portion of small businesses' overhead costs. For many small business owners, the main option is moving to less expensive quarters.

A major New York City bank (Citibank) surveyed rental costs for the second, third and fourth floors of 212 buildings in a Brooklyn, New York retail area. The survey found rents for the vacant space were as low as $4 a square foot, compared to the prime office space rents of $35 a square foot in Manhattan. Similar rental comparisons may be available in your town as well.

Be forewarned: office space away from a good traffic location is only suitable to certain businesses. Businesses usually found in these quarters are office services firms such as printing, computer processing, small manufacturing, repair shops such as those for appliances and fix-it shops, and instructional firms such as teaching, exercise and self-improvement.

If you do not want to move, or are unable to do so, check with your city or county government to see if there is a landlord-tenant organization. In many areas, such an organization is usually a quasi-government group with no formal authority. However, in most cases, landlords follow the suggestions of the group regarding percentage increases in rent.

A third option, which can work both ways, is to raise the price on your services or goods. Because this option may backfire and result in lower sales, you should carefully review your market, your customers and the competition to determine if a price increase can cover your added rent increase and at the same time keep your sales steady.

THE COST OF PRIVATE SERVICE AT PUBLIC EXPENSE

Interesting news comes out of a South Mississippi county about public employees and private projects. For too many years too many county supervisors have violated the law — offering private services at public expense.

Specifically, some supervisors have dug graves and provided gravel for private drives — both violations of the law. Supervisors sworn to uphold the law have violated their oaths of office with the simple explanation that "it's something that people have been doing for years."

New state auditor Ray Mabius has issued a directive to county supervisors: no more private service at public expense — no more gravel for driveways and no more grave digging except for indigents.

From the South Mississippi county came news this week, then, that supervisors are following Mabius' instruction, and, based on compliance with the law, two supervisors in the county removed a total of eleven employees from the county payroll.

The two supervisors involved explained that the eleven employees were required to provide the work on private property. Reconsidering wages and benefits, saving the county expense could amount to as much as $100,000 a year with the reduction of the work force.

And, interesting news coming out of the state capital reports that several legislators have introduced bills which would legalize private service at public expense, as in the graveling of drives and digging of graves.

Hopefully, somebody will think about the taxpayers — both in the capital and at the courthouse.

Arthritis Foundation opens Coast office

Coast residents can now get free information about arthritis and how to cope with the pain by calling the newly formed Gulf Coast Branch of the Mississippi Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. The office has opened at 200 Pass Road, Suite G, in Gulfport.

According to branch director Julie Williams, the office is a clearinghouse for information and assistance for the arthritis patients and their families.

Williams said she is available to meet in groups and that periodically the foundation will sponsor public seminars and information seminars. A support group, called Arthritis Caring Together, of Arthritis regularly on the first Tuesday of every month.

WHAT IS STROKE?

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to part of the brain is halted or pressure on the blood vessel by a tumor. Strokes are more likely to occur when arteries leading to the brain have been previously damaged by a disease process called hardening of the arteries. Warning signs of a possible stroke may include temporary loss of speech, loss of vision or double vision, unexplained headaches or dizziness. Regular medical checkups are the best protection against strokes. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

FROST BITE

Is cold weather really all that dangerous?

Definitely. No one has to be told that it's been cold lately, but few Mississippians realize just how deadly cold weather can be. Humans are just ill-equipped to deal with prolonged exposure to the cold.

People experience three types of injury from cold: chilblain, trench foot, and frostbite. The first two are non-freezing types of injury and occur upon exposure to cold and wetness. When the temperature dips below freezing, frostbite — the most serious injury — occurs.

How does frostbite cause damage? Frostbite is an injury unique to man. Unlike animals, we constrict our blood vessels in response to cold. Most of the time, this works to our advantage to reduce heat loss, but in extreme cold, the lack of blood supply can lead to tissue damage.

Frostbite is divided into three degrees.

Frostnip is mildest and involves no loss of tissue. The skin blanches when touched and the area feels numb, but when rewarmed it recovers quickly.

Superficial frostbite leaves the frozen part white, but the tissue remains soft. The area may feel waxy and numb. After thawing, there is pain, and blisters develop in one to 24 hours.

Deep frostbite leaves the injured part hard and wooden, and the tissue cannot be depressed at all. After thawing, the area remains cold and blue. Several weeks later, a line of separation between the dead and living tissue develops and the frozen tissue falls off. The whole area may remain swollen for months.

Frostbite is dependent not just on the temperature, but also on other factors that speed up heat loss. The most common examples are contact with wetness and wind velocity.

The loss of body heat is 25 times greater in water as in air at the same temperature.

The 'wind-chill factor' is a measure of the greater heat loss in moving air.

For example, a temperature of 15 degrees with a wind of 20 miles per hour is equal to minus 25 degrees, a temperature that will freeze exposed flesh within one minute.

Am I risking frostbite every time I'm outside?

Most healthy people will never develop frostbite if they are adequately clothed. The injury is almost always associated with fatigue, accidents, immersion or immobilization.

Alcohol plays a special role — more than 50 percent of frostbite injuries are associated with it.

Frostbite injury is worse in those who are not exposed to severe cold frequently. It takes about six weeks to adapt to cold weather, but once you do, your chances of developing a cold injury are a lot less. The elderly and the very young adapt to the cold poorly.

What can be done to prevent cold injury?

A useful acronym to remember is COLD: 'C' stands for 'clean' — dirt on protective clothing aids heat loss; 'O' stands for open — sweat from activity builds up a wet layer next to the skin, so clothing should be open during vigorous exercise; 'L' stand for loose layers — multiple layers protect better; 'D' stands for dry — most synthetic fibers lose all their insulating capabilities when wet (wool is an exception).

What should I do if I think I have frostbite?

If you suspect a toe or nose to be frozen, rapid rewarming is the remedy, but this should be done under hospital conditions. Warming with a stove or fire may make the injury worse, and since the cold extremity may be numb, you could seriously burn yourself without realizing it.

Avoid thawing and re-freezing of the injured part. This further damages tissue. If you are camping in the woods, for example, or are otherwise likely to be re-exposed to freezing temperatures, it's best to go to a medical center before the injury thaws.

Cold injuries can be severe and lead to loss of toes or fingers, or even whole extremities. What's more, the injured body part will be more susceptible to further frostbite for years to come. Sensible precautions are your best protection.

VFW hosts tribute honoring Vietnam vets

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Theodore S. Price VFW Post 3253 held a memorial and recognition service for all U.S. Vietnam veterans on Jan. 27 at the post home in Bay St. Louis.

The special services were held on the anniversary of the signing of the Vietnam Peace Accord in 1973.

Charles Black, commander of Post 3253, was master of ceremonies and was introduced by Gerry Collins, a member of the post and a Vietnam veteran.

Collins stated, "The Vietnam veterans were the only Americans who were not welcomed home with open arms on their return from war."

"With the designation of this day as 'Vietnam Veterans Recognition Day' these Americans will now feel they can take their place with the veterans from all other wars."

John Wilkerson, keynote speaker said, "Almost 10 years have passed since America was faced with the conflicts of the Vietnam war. Within that time many have forgotten the gallant efforts of the American fighting men, who carried on the tradition, as did their forefathers."

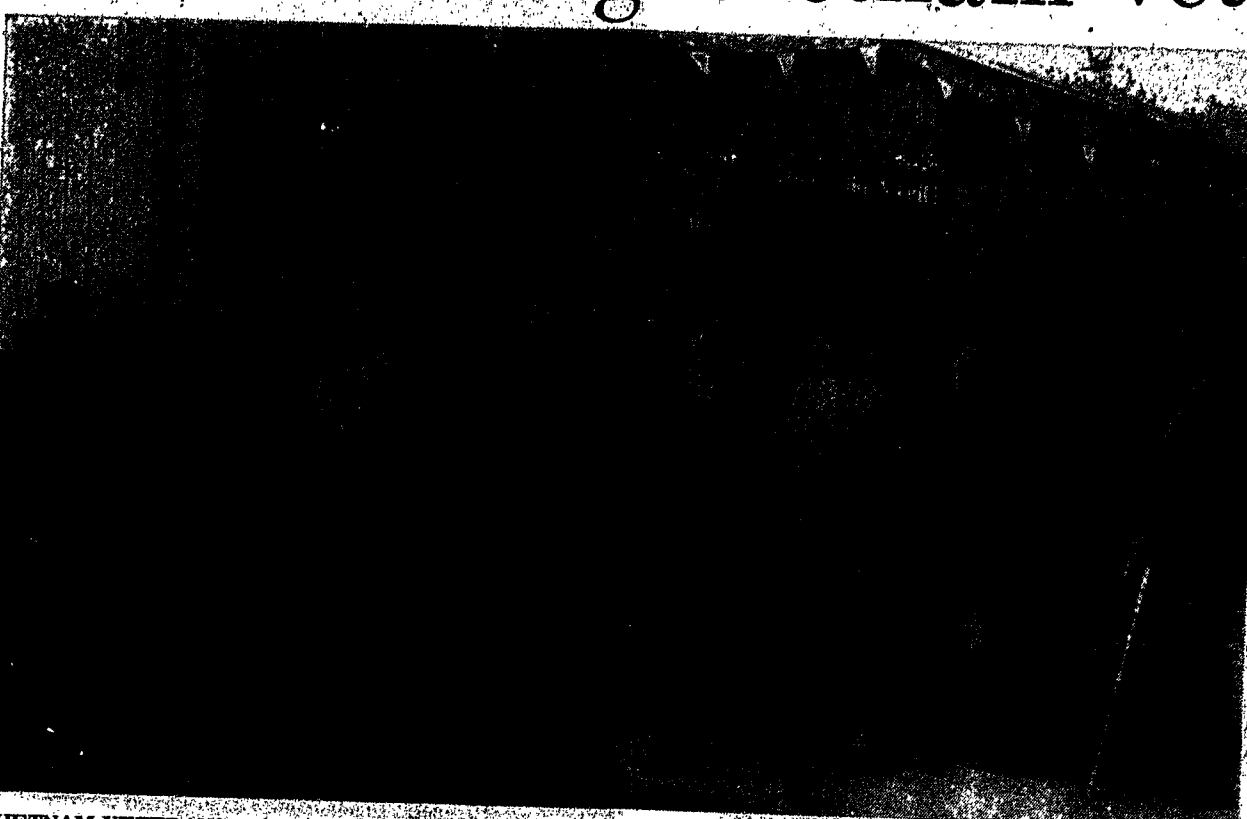

"Now, as our forefathers have done, the Vietnam veterans must unite not only with others of the 13-year war, but along side their fellow comrades of WWI, WWII, and Korea. It was through their bond that the strength of VFW, American Legion and DAV have withstood the decades of fighting only to emerge steadfast and true," Wilkerson continued, adding, "It is through their guidance and experience that the rightful recognition be given to those who gave their all for this great land of ours."

A flag raising ceremony was held while the Bay High Band played the National Anthem, followed by a 21-gun salute presented by the Pearl River VFW Firing Squad.

Other guest speakers included Mary Fedele of Pass Christian, District One VFW Auxiliary president; Jeanne Garcia, representing the City of Waveland; Larry Bennett, Bay St. Louis mayor; and Charles Carver, post chaplain, who gave a closing prayer.

Other distinguished guests also included David Cummins, District One VFW commander; Joseph Fedele, VFW National Aide De Camp; Jesse Burns, commander, DAV Post 50; and Lucille Boudreaux, president, VFW Auxiliary 3253.

Reading product labels brings more nutrition for food dollar

By Ann Rushing
Marketing Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Labels can help people plan more nutritious and economical meals. By comparing the nutritive values of various brands and foods, people can get more nutrition for the food dollar.

In addition, nutritional labeling helps in selecting food for special diets such as low sodium or low cholesterol and allows calorie counting.

Remember, when reading labels, that all food processors must list ingredients in the order in which they predominate - in other words, in decreasing order according to their weight present in the product.

For instance, a label that lists "Gravy, beef, carrots, salt," contains more gravy than anything else. A label that reads "Water, sugar, orange juice" has orange juice in the least amount. Consumers should read ingredient lists carefully to determine if they're getting what they pay for.

Examine the labels of "new" products and old standbys. Compare prices, net contents, ingredient lists, and, if available, nutrition information panels. The cost for a slightly modified product - the addition of a little seasoning, a sauce, a few onions or imitation bacon bits, some raisins, dates, or nuts - may be more than the consumers wishes to pay.

For economy, use cereals that need cooking rather than instant or ready-to-eat cereals. Also, unsweetened cereals can be selected. If practical, buy cereals in family-size boxes.

Consider cost and quality of the finished product in deciding whether to buy convenience foods. How much the person enjoys cooking and how much time available for it also will influence the choice. Some foods are easy to prepare, yet inexpensive.

Among these are many canned and frozen vegetables, fruits, and juices; instant dehydrated potatoes; canned and dried soups, nonfat dry milk; bread; prepared mixes for biscuits and cakes; and ready-to-eat and "quick" cereals.

When groceries arrive at home, check them critically. Are the choices economical, compared with other choices that might have been made?

Federal wage hikes reported

The Department of Defense Wage Fixing Authority has announced the fiscal year 1984 wage schedule for the Biloxi Mississippi Wage Area.

The schedule applies to all blue collar employees of the federal government paid from appropriated funds who are engaged in laboring, trades and crafts occupations in the area.

The new pay schedule, effective the first day of the first pay period on or after April 21, increases hourly salaries an average of 28 cents per hour for non-supervisory employees, 31 cents for leaders and 57 cents for supervisors.

The pay rates contained in the new schedule are based on a survey of rates paid by private industry in the area and are not related to the increase for General Schedule (GS) employees which was effective Jan. 8.

The schedule was established under the Federal Wage System and affects approximately 1,800 employees in Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, George, Pearl River and Stone Counties.

News Brief

The recent influenza outbreak in Hancock County schools appears to be over.

Sue Dean, secretary to Hancock County School District Superintendent Terrell Randolph, says absenteeism last week was considerably lower than it was during the preceding two weeks.

The number of absences last week, she says, was "almost back to normal." A report on samples from sick children that was sent to the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for diagnosis has not yet been received, Dean said Friday.

and keeping the present Bay and Waveland discharge points are all included as alternative effluent disposal methods, he noted.

Lee Rammel, a Hancock resident who lives near the mouth of the Jourdan, suggested that the public notice to be published in this newspaper to advertise the hearing include alternatives so all residents affected by any of these could have an opportunity to voice their opinions.

Longo agreed with the suggestion. The district had originally planned to extend the end of the Bay and Waveland effluent lines to the Jourdan, but about 100 angry homeowners living in the vicinity of present and proposed sewage discharge points appeared at a recent public hearing in Waveland regarding the district's sewerage plans and voiced their objections to the extensions.

The residents said at the hearing and at recent meetings of the board that the extensions will result in pollution of the Jourdan which they value as a prime recreational area.

Mike Reynolds, another Jourdan resident, requested to be placed on the Feb. 15 meeting agenda and Longo agreed to the request.

Boy Scouts mark anniversary

The New Orleans Area Council joins more than 400 other Boy Scouts of America councils Feb. 5-11 in observing BSA's 74th anniversary.

For 65 years the council has been administering Boy Scouts of America programs in the area with the help of local volunteers.

This year's weeklong observance is dedicated to the untiring efforts of those volunteers.

"We are a volunteer based organization," said Gerald F. Villars, director of support services.

"Since it was organized in 1910, BSA has dedicated itself to providing an educational program for boys and young adults that builds character, trains them in responsible citizenship and develops personal fitness."

"None of this would be possible without the adult volunteers who give their time so unselfishly," Villars said. "There are more than 5,000 volunteers working with 20,945 youth in the council's area," he said.

Anniversary week activities get underway today with Scout Sunday. Scout Sabbath Services will conclude the week on Feb. 11.

"We really want to pay tribute to our volunteers," Villars said.

"But we also want to honor the people who support them such as employers and spouses. After all, volunteers do sacrifice time away from home and work to be of service to Scouts and Explorers."

SNOWMOBILE AT FORT WALTON BEACH???—The prototype for a new amphibious air-cushion landing craft being built by Bell Aerospace Textron, Division of Textron Inc., has successfully completed a series of cold weather/arctic tests at Eglin Air Force Base at Fort Walton Beach, Fla. The prototype, the amphibious assault landing craft (AALC) JEFF(B), underwent a total of 20.2 hours of testing and was subjected to blowing snow, freezing rain, and icing at 10°F and blowing snow at -30°F. During the tests, all major equipment systems, including cold-weather components, operated satisfactorily, proving the craft can successfully function at temperatures as low as -30°F. Testing was held in a Climatic Chamber at Eglin.

NOAA's Hancock facility part of ocean celebration

The Year of the Ocean is a special celebration to kindle a new interest in the development, use, research, exploration, and enjoyment of the sea around us. The celebration will begin on March 10 and focus on education and stewardship. At various times throughout the year, federal organizations in the ocean field will open their doors to welcome the public, especially students, to view their facilities. Planning sessions are under way at national, state and local levels for an exciting calendar of instructive events. Dr. Harold Howse, director of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs, is planning a series of educational seminars and other activities involving the laboratory and its J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and centering on the theme of the year-long observation. The Year of the Ocean Foundation will sponsor the celebration which is in honor of the first anniversary of President Reagan's Proclamation of the Exclusive Economic Zone. The proclamation extended U.S. sovereign rights and jurisdiction to the many resources found within 200

Buffer zone policies outlined by NSTL

Officials at the National Space Technology Laboratories remind the public that the buffer zone surrounding the installation is comprised largely of privately owned land and that it is illegal for anyone to enter the area without permission of the individual landowners.

Anyone entering the area to hunt, cut firewood or for any other purpose without receiving appropriate authorization from the landowners will be subject to prosecution for trespassing.

The 125,327 acres of acoustical buffer zone serves to dissipate the loud, low-frequency sound waves generated by static tests of large rocket propulsion systems such as those being tested for the current Space Shuttle program.

Individuals and companies own the majority of the area, while the government owns a few scattered parcels of land. These private landowners retain all rights to their property, with the exception of constructing dwelling places or any other similar habitable structure.

Most of the buffer zone lies in Hancock County, extending north into Pearl River County and west into St. Tammany Parish in Louisiana.

The perimeter of the buffer zone is clearly marked with signs, as are the 13,480 acres of government-owned land in Hancock County where the NSTL facilities.

As NASA's agent, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has the responsibility for assuring that the regulations governing the use of the buffer zone are met.

Area law enforcement officials, including sheriffs, constables and game wardens, are charged with enforcing the law as well. Surveillance of the area is also provided by NSTL.

DEFIANT DIGNITY
"Nothing But a Man," the 1964 acclaimed film starring Ivan Dixon and Abby Lincoln, will be presented on "American Playhouse" in celebration of Black History Month at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 7, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The film tells the story of Duff Anderson (Dixon), a black ex-G.I. whose independence gets him into trouble in the small Southern community in which he and his young bride live.

Although the threat of violence is ever-present, it is the nonviolent reprisals that the couple experience for simply being themselves.

Although Duff is not a troublemaker, his independence and dignity inevitably set him up as a challenge to the white community.

He makes every effort to avoid trouble, but by simply being himself, by insisting that he has the right to look the other fellow straight in the eye, by his unwillingness to conform to the white idea of a black, he soon finds himself a marked man.

Viewers may notice Yaphet Kotto, Moses Gunn and Esther Rolle in minor roles.

Safety tips offered on frozen foods

By Ann Rushing
Marketing Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Safe use of frozen foods begins in the store.

When buying frozen foods, always check display cases to see that the foods are kept below the 'frostline' or 'loadline.' This is the line marked on commercial frozen cabinets which indicates the safety level. Don't buy products that have been stored above this line.

Let grocery shopping be the last thing on the list. Take frozen foods home and put them in your freezer immediately. Be sure the temperature in your home freezer is 0 degrees F or below.

When preparing frozen foods, always read labels carefully. Many labels will tell that a product should not be refrozen.

Always plan ahead for time to defrost frozen foods in the refrigerator. Don't take frozen foods from the freezer and leave them to thaw at room temperature for long hours. They could easily spoil and cause illness.

Proper handling of all foods, especially perishables can help get more for your food dollars.

WEIGHT AND ARTHRITIS
Being overweight may increase the chances of getting arthritis, according to the Gulf Coast Branch of the Arthritis Foundation.

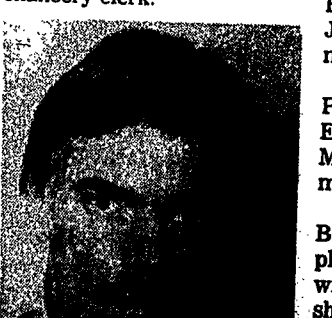

Various studies have shown that osteoarthritis develops earlier and more frequently in people who are more than 10 percent overweight. Osteoarthritis, known as the 'wear-and-tear' disease, is a breakdown of the cartilage and other tissues that make a joint work properly. It affects about 16 million Americans.

"In addition," Julie Williams, director of the local branch states, "being overweight can aggravate arthritis by adding to the burden of weight bearing joints."

OLG the setting for Seal, Sallinger marriage

MRS. ELLIS CLARK SEAL

Fran Marie Sallinger became the bride of Ellis Clark Seal on Saturday, January 21 during a 1 p.m. ceremony at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. The Reverends Louis Lohan and Francis Farrell officiated.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Joseph Sallinger of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Seal Jr. of Poplarville.

The sanctuary was decorated with multiple arrangements of white fugal and starburst chrysanthemums, carnations, statice and eucalyptus. Satin bows and greenery marked the center aisle pews and palm greenery enhanced the setting.

Scripture readings were rendered by Mrs. George Cenac of Kenner, La., a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. John Hackbarth of Hattiesburg, a sister of the groom.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. John McKenna of Bay St. Louis, organist, and Miss Lorin Walker of Jackson, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of white peauette taffeta and beaded French Alencon lace hand-appliqued to English net. The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline, long tapered sleeves and basque waistline. The skirt of the formal gown fell from soft gathers at the dropped waist and had a deep border of applied Alencon lace ending in a beaded scallop that encircled the hemline and chapel length train. She wore a wreath fashioned of Alencon lace florets with an attached veil of imported illusion extending to chapel length. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

She carried a cascade of cream white silk roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with plumosa fern.

Miss Lori Sallinger of Long Beach, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Misses Beverly Hill and Monica Parker of Bay St. Louis; Miss Mary Seal of Poplarville, sister of the groom; Mrs. Debie Boler of Hattiesburg and Mrs. Mona Hall Lewis of Laurel.

The attendants were identically attired in gowns of royal blue velvet and taffeta, each fashioned with a velvet bodice featuring a scalloped neckline, short princess sleeves and scalloped basque waistline. Whisper taffeta formed the full skirts.

They carried stylized crescent bouquets of cream white roses, tiger lilies and baby's breath accented with velvet ribbons.

Miss Lindsey McQueen of Picayune, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired in a gown of the same style and color as the attendants and carried a wicker basket of cream white flowers accented with blue and wore a halfpiece of matching flowers.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, James Seal of Amory, Miss.

Groomsmen were John Hackbarth of Hattiesburg, brother-in-law of the groom; Barry Sallinger of Lafayette, La., brother of the bride; Kelly McQueen of Picayune, brother-in-law of the bride; Clay Knight and Kenny Howard of Poplarville.

Ring bearer was Luke Hackbarth, nephew of the groom.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was hosted at the Landmark Townsquare in Bay St. Louis.

Palm greenery and arrangements of white fugal mums, carnations, laurel, statice, eucalyptus and pink roses were placed throughout the reception rooms. The bride's table held a five-tier wedding cake topped with a silver Christogram and flanked by silver candelabra. Guests were received in the Mauffray Room, where Mrs. Gail Carr provided soft background music on the piano.

Mrs. Sallinger chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of dusty rose crepe with lace bodice, bateau neckline, puffed, elbow-length sleeves, cummerbund waistline and draped, slim skirt. The groom's mother, Mrs. Seal, wore a periwinkle blue chiffon gown with rounded neckline, shirred bodice with capelet sleeves, fitted waist with self-lash and softly gathered skirt. They wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

For traveling, the bride wore a two-piece wool suit in muted shades of rust and burgundy, with a cream crepe blouse with mandarin collar and tiberstone accessories. She wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following their honeymoon the couple will reside in Slidell, La.

A miscellaneous shower was hosted by Mrs. Eleanor Hill and Miss Beverly Hill at their home on Beverly Drive in Bay St. Louis on Saturday, January 7.

On January 8 a shower honoring the bride was given by Mrs. Janet McQueen and Miss Lori Sallinger at the McQueen home in Picayune.

History of Natchez lives through building preservation

Natchez has never forgotten it was once the home of more millionaires than any other city in the United States and one of the cultural capitals of the world.

Its citizens are committed to preserving its past in both traditions and buildings that are its legacy.

With more than 500 antebellum buildings still standing there is much to preserve.

The annual Spring Pilgrimage March 3 through April 1 features pageantry that enables one to revisit the era of planter aristocracy: young girls in hoop skirts inviting visitors into white-columned mansions, elaborate gardens on the high bluffs overlooking the Mississippi River, century-old oak trees lining the lawns of antebellum houses and evening tableaux of scenes depicting a lifestyle that is no more.

Founded in 1716 by the French, Natchez is the oldest city on the river. She has had the flags of five nations flown over her lands.

Each great nation - France, Great Britain, Spain, the Confederate States, and the United States of America - has added to her rich heritage.

The influence of the reigning country is reflected in the variety of architectural styles that are found here in the largest collection of antebellum homes in America.

Many notables were entertained in Natchez, and tales of these occasions have been handed down from generation to generation.

Lafayette, the hero of the American Revolution; Jim Bowie, the patriot who lost his life for the independence of Texas; Henry Clay, the imminent American statesman; Samuel Clemens, the famous river pilot and author; and Lyle Roberts, the Florida adventurer who is a legend in San Francisco were but a few of the city's famous visitors.

Natchez is a city of beauty, donning her finest attire with the advent of Spring.

Charm and history that made her "the most splendid city on the river."

For further information, please write: The Natchez Pilgrimage Tours, P. O. Box 347, Natchez, Miss. 39120 or call 601-446-6631 or 800-647-6742.

Perhaps it's my changeable Irish nature, but I like the contradictory taste of sweet and sour dishes of every kind, from the Chinese pork and chicken to the spiced roasts of Sweden, to Germany's sauerbraten, to all the others.

Sweet and sour meatballs are one of my favorites, bite-size for appetizers, larger for casseroles, or for serving with noodles. This is a dish I vary from time to time, as do most cooks...there are many dishes I never, or almost never cook the exact same way twice. Here's

3/4 cup vinegar

ETV Brief

MILITARY BLACKS
The involvement of blacks in the history of the United States military from 1776 to the present is explored in "The Different Drummer: Blacks in the Military," a three-part documentary series by award-winning filmmaker William Miles.

The three programs, first seen on ETV last spring, will be rebroadcast at 9 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning Feb. 8, on Mississippi Educational Television in celebration of Black History Month.

The films mix archival footage, photographs and interviews with top military personnel to illuminate the history of black patriotism and involvement in all of America's wars.

The series premieres with "Unknown Soldier," which examines the earliest black involvement in the military beginning with the Revolutionary War. It traces the black soldier through the Civil War and into the post-Civil War period and Spanish-American War and concludes after World War I.

Catholic Church Parish News

By Fr. B.C. Keller, SVD
To be the salt of the earth is to season the world with God's love lived out in daily life. But seasoning, as any good cook knows, is a delicate art; too much can ruin a dish as easily as too little.

Congratulations to the following young parishioners who made the Alpha Honor Roll in their respective schools: Tyra Young, Myrel Labat, Germaine Lymuel, Tesia Lee, Deidra Tillman, Rickey Lewis Jr., and Robert Tillman. Keep it up!

Congratulations to the following who made the Beta Honor Roll: Wesley Labat, Vida Laneaux, Dale Whavers, Travis Collins, Jennifer Labat, Maisha Moxey, Adrian Whavers, Kendall Laneaux, Michael Price, and Erica Whavers. Keep it up!

The second collection today is for the Saltillo Mission in Mexico.

Parents and guardians, we need your help! Since the beginning of this new year our religious instruction classes' attendance has dropped off.

We cannot possibly give this training to your children without your cooperation. Won't you please see to it that your children attend these classes regularly? This religious training is most necessary for them.

Religious instructions today after the 9 a.m. Mass are for students in grades 6, 7 and 8. Weekday classes are at 3 p.m.: on Monday for grades 1 and 2; on Tuesday for grades 3 and 4; and on Wednesday for grade 5. Confirmation class is on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

The first meeting for parents of children preparing for the reception of Eucharist and Reconciliation will be on Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Rose Center. It is essential that you be there!

Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. Parishioners are urged to donate a unit of blood at the regular blood drawing of the Red Cross this Wednesday, from 2 till 8 p.m., at the American Legion Hall. The present blood supply is low since the last drawing was below quota. If you are physically able and at least 17 years of age, please help!

The parish council will hold its semi-annual open meeting in the cafeteria Thursday at 7 p.m. The Basketball Tournament (beginning March 10) will be discussed along with other topics suggested by parishioners at large. Please come! We need your input and interest.

How about using apple sauce on pancakes and French toast?

By Ann Rushing
Marketing Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

If possible, plan menus for a week at a time. Make a shopping list. Check newspaper ads for weekly specials and sales. Money can be saved at sales if the food store is nearby, if the food is of good quality and if adequate storage space is handy to keep it.

Check local papers to find out which days supermarket ads appear. Hand bills and circulars handed out at the store also list sales items.

Keep a list. Write down needed items for consideration through the week. Group the items by the way they are found in the stores. This will save time and steps.

Buy staples such as flour, sugar and cornmeal monthly or bi-monthly. Check staples before shopping.

Use a shopping list. Take a pencil along and check off items as selected. Usually stick to the list, but substitute a better buy at the store.

Prices of fresh fruits and vegetables change with the season. Buy seasonal fresh foods when cheapest and more plentiful in the area.

Although most foods have increased in price, it is possible to save food dollars by substituting a cheaper food for a more expensive family favorite. Make salad dressing to use, instead of mayonnaise. Strain oils for cooking after using.

Put oil in the refrigerator and reuse it. Cut down on making pastries which use a lot of shortening. Serve the family baked apples instead of apple pie. Calories are saved as well.

Canned table syrup and mock maple syrup are all increasing in price. How about using applesauce on breakfast pancakes and French toast?

ETV Brief

ROSSINI OPERA

"La Cenerentola," Rossini's operatic retelling of "Cinderella," will be presented on "Great Performances" at 9 p.m., Monday, Feb. 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The telecast, an expanded version of the famed La Scala staging of the work, incorporates studio and location filming. It stars Frederica von Stade as Cinderella and Italian tenor Francisco Araiza as the prince.

Unlike many other operatic versions of the Cinderella story, Rossini's is totally without supernatural elements. A man of the real world, Rossini had little use for pumpkin carriages, fairy godmothers and midnight transformations. He completed the score in 24 days, just in time for the opera's 1817 premiere.
